EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This report is a revised edition of the original D5.2.1, originally submitted in January 2012 (M12), based on review comments and remarks received from the project reviewers after the mid-term review (RV1) in April 2012. Although at the date of submission of this deliverable number of events and activities have been already carried out, these are still listed as planned activities to be consistent with a planning cycle as specified in the DoW.

The results of the planned activities will be reported in the next deliverable (D5.2.2) and more detailed descriptions of forthcoming national workshops will be in D5.4, which is due on July 31, 2012 (M18).

This report documents the dissemination activities carried out by all META-NORD partners during the first project year (M1-M12).

It provides two views of the same information in separate chapters, first according to the intended audience of the dissemination actions and secondly according to type of dissemination actions. The information is provided as a whole for all of the META-NORD consortium partners, including quantitative charts, with detailed listings in the appendices.

1. Background

The purpose of this document is to assess how the META-NORD project has been promoted within the research communities, businesses and industries, governments and societies in general within the countries of the META-NORD partners. Moreover, the document reveals activities already planned for further dissemination and other ideas to raise awareness of the project, in order to sustain and make available the knowledge and resources which have culminated together in this project.

1.1. Project visual identity and website

META-NORD, as a META-NET Network of Excellence member, collaborates with other META-NET members. Coherence in communication activities within META-NET (including branding and visual identity) is ensured. For example, the META-NORD project website (see the description in section 3.1) has a similar look and feel as the websites of other members of META-NET (colours, logotype adhered to the one shared META-NET brand that is essential and mission-critical for the success of the communication strategy and the overall initiative). Also, the project logotype, used on all project dissemination materials, is adhered to one shared META-NET brand.

1.2. Key Performance Indicators

We will use Key Performance Indicators (KPI) to follow up on dissemination activities and their results. The KPIs listed below will be used as a general measurement of the dissemination activities, as well as to take corrective actions for further activities:

- Web traffic:
 - History of internet traffic to the project related websites.
 - History of traffic before and after a specific dissemination event to judge effectiveness and success of dissemination events.
 - Geographical grouping of visitors.
 - Number of visits and downloads for content made available (deliverables, descriptions of resources, hits on links to META-SHARE nodes etc.).
- Contacts, e.g. newsletters, mailings
- Meetings, workshops and seminars attended by the project beneficiaries
- Meetings, workshops and seminars organized by the project
- Number of participants in physical meetings organized and attended by the project beneficiaries
- Number of publications, articles, conference papers
- Number of interviews
- Numbers of quotes and citations
- Inquiries after meetings organized by the project
- Etc.

The KPIs above will give concrete reference points to identify which dissemination actions generate the most reactions and where improvement is needed.

2. Awareness, mobilisation and dissemination within three target groups

There are three focus areas that have been defined for promoting and mobilising the META-NORD project nationally and internationally. These are i) the research community; ii) the language technology industry and other business sectors; iii) society, government and other decision makers. Each of the following sections will provide an overview¹ of actions taken during the first year of this project relevant to each focus area, as well as planned actions for the next project year.

2.1. META-NORD in the Research Community

The size of the LT research communities varies among the eight countries participating in the project. The communities are smallest in Estonia and Iceland, only three universities or institutes participating in each, with Latvia, Finland and Sweden the seemingly biggest². There has been an extensive participation with and mobilisation of the research community, among other things through the work on the Language Whitepapers (LWPs)³, e.g. where contributions were sought from several LT experts.

The first year of the project has produced 15 actions aimed directly at the research community and an additional 29 actions aimed at a wider audience that also included the research community (see figure 2).

² See D5.1.1 and D2.5 for detailed description.

The 44 actions aimed at the research community were fairly equally distributed between presentations, various types of participation activities and various publications (see figure 3).

A total of 16 publications aimed at the research community (as shown in figure 3) were published in various media in Estonia, Germany, Iceland, Japan, Latvia, Lithuania, Norway and Thailand. The different types of publications and distribution between them are as follows: journals (5), articles (2), conference papers (6), mass media publications (3). (See figure 4.)

The different types of 17 participation activities aimed at the research community (as shown in figure 3) are as follows: workshops (5), seminars (3), online activity (8), other (1) - (see figure 5). These activities took place in Denmark, Estonia, Finland, Greece, Iceland, Latvia, Lithuania, Norway and Sweden.

The 11 presentations aimed at the research community took place in Germany, Iceland, Latvia, Lithuania and Norway.

2.2. META-NORD within Business and Industry

The market in the eight META-NORD countries are of various sizes. In Iceland there is only one company currently developing revenue-generating LT product whereas in Norway there are about 25 developers or potential users that can be contacted in relation to this project. However, other sectors can benefit significantly from LT, such as publishing houses, newspapers, magazines, translation bureaus, dictionary makers and writers, to name a few⁴.

According to the DoW and D5.1.1 Action plan (delivered in M6), the consortium undertakes targeted outreach actions vis-à-vis socio-economics sectors and actual or potential application domains which play a particularly important role at a national level to increase the visibility of LT within business and industry. These actions are coordinated with META-NET's multinational activities.

The first year of the project has produced 1 action aimed directly at business and industry sections and an additional 25 actions aimed at a wider audience that also included business and industries (see figure 6).

⁴ See D5.1.1 and D2.5 for detailed description.

META-NORD dissemination (M1-M12)

Business and industry

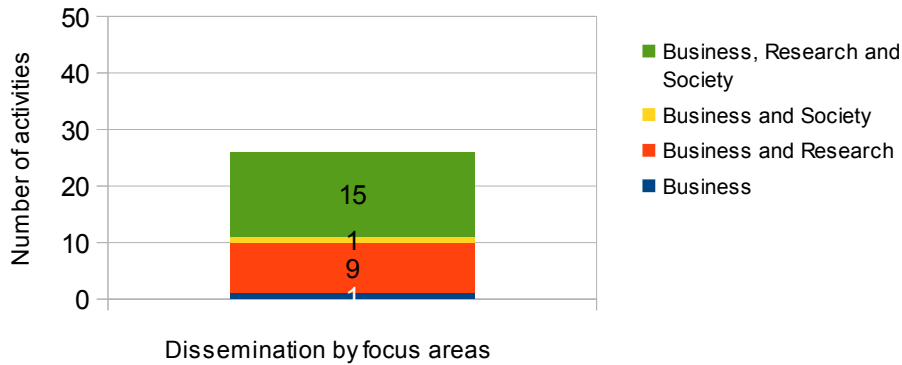

Figure 6: All dissemination activities aimed at business and industry alone and with other focus areas

The 26 actions aimed at business and industry were much more interactive, with more than half (14) categorised as participation activities and the other half equally distributed between presentations and publications.

META-NORD dissemination (M1-M12)

Business and industry

A total of 6 publications aimed at business and industry (as shown in figure 7) were published in various media in Iceland, Latvia, Norway and Thailand. The different types of publications and distribution between them are as follows: journals (1), articles (0), conference papers (2), mass media publications (3). (See figure 8.)

The different types of the 14 participation activities aimed at business and industry (as shown in figure 6) are as follows: workshops (3), seminars (2), online activity (9), other (0) - (see figure 9). These activities took place in Denmark, Estonia, Finland, Greece, Iceland, Latvia, Lithuania and Norway.

Participation activities for business and industry

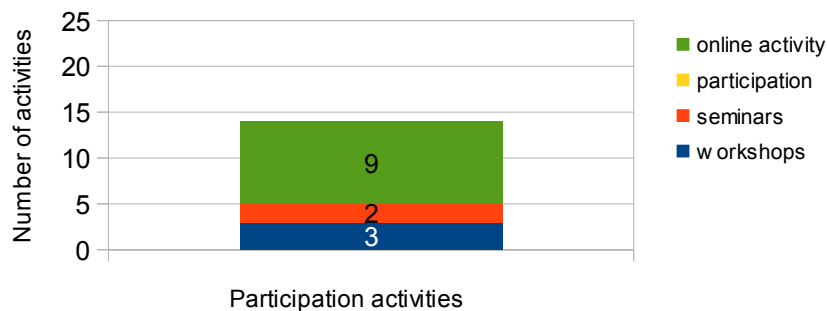

Figure 9: Detailed distribution of participation activities aimed at business and industry

The 6 presentations aimed at business and industry took place in Denmark, Germany, Latvia, Lithuania and Norway.

Another measurement of successful outreach is getting relevant parties to register with META-NET, e.g. UIB has established contact with the industry sector, among them Telenor and Statoil, providing them with information about META-NET and have succeeded in getting most of the industry contacts to register in META (23 Norwegian contacts by January 2012: <http://www.meta-net.eu/participating-organisations/logos?country=Norway&area=>)

2.3. META-NORD in Society and Government

Just like the size of the research communities and business and industry differs between countries, there are various numbers of public foundations within the eight META-NORD countries. These can be institutions that are government-funded or government-run, as well as privately funded institutions and foundations. Such institutes and foundations can be of great import in the development of LT and it is, therefore, vital that they be kept informed and involved. Moreover, most of the project partners have already contacted the ministries and other governmental organisations relevant to LT in their countries - usually the ministries for education, culture, communications, science and technology, as well as, in some cases, ministries of finance and ministries of industry⁵.

The first year of the project has produced 16 actions aimed directly at society and government and an additional 21 actions aimed at a wider audience that also included society and governmental authorities (see figure 10).

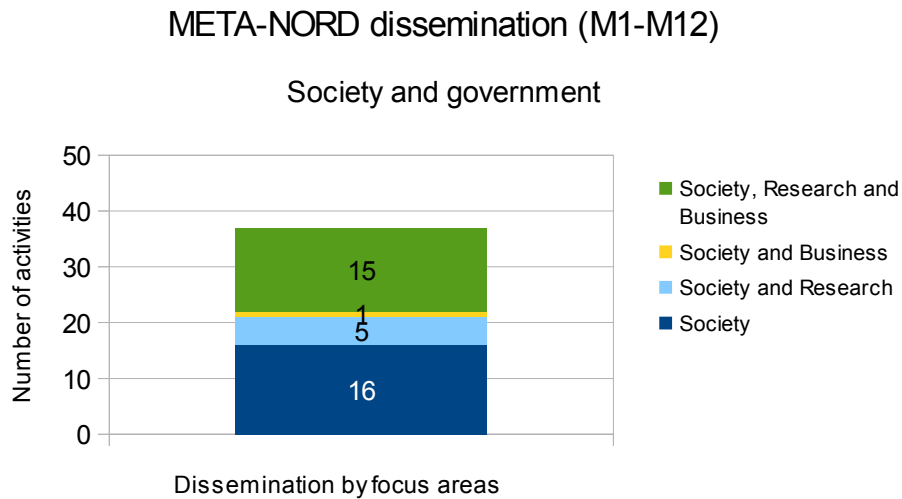

Figure 10: All dissemination activities aimed at society and government alone and with other focus areas

The 37 actions aimed at society and government consisted mostly of presentations and various types of publications, with a fair number of various participation activities as well (see figure 11).

⁵ See META-NORD deliverables D5.1.1 and D2.5 for detailed descriptions.

META-NORD dissemination (M1-M12)

A total of 12 publications aimed at society and government (as shown in figure 11) were published in various media in Denmark, Iceland, Latvia and Norway. The different types of publications and distribution between them are as follows: journals (0), articles (8), conference papers (0), mass media publications (4). (See figure 12.)

The 14 presentations aimed at society and government took place in Germany, Iceland, Latvia, Lithuania and Norway.

2.4. Linking the sectors with META-NORD

Of the 62 dissemination activities, about half (30) reached across more than one focus area (see figure 14). Interestingly, there was only one dissemination action aimed both at business & industry and society & government, namely the e-mail outreach by HI introducing META-NORD to companies and institutions in Iceland.

META-NORD dissemination (M1-M12)

Overlapping focus areas

Relevant activities to all focus areas were in particular online activities and mass media publications.

3. Activities

This section summarises the awareness raising and dissemination actions implemented by META-NORD partners during the year of the project. Most of these actions are directed towards one or more of the target groups described in the previous section, e.g. prepared European Language Days press releases in 8 project languages. However, some of META-NORD dissemination activities are also directed towards the general public, e.g. META-NORD Iceland on Facebook. Note that these are not additional activities to the previous section, but rather a different approach to the same information.

3.1. META-NORD visual identity and website

The META-NORD project website was published under the domain: www.meta-nord.eu. It has become the basic public dissemination channel for the project (see figure 15).

www.meta-nord.eu

The META-NORD website has a separate dynamic section:

- latest news and upcoming events, as well as data uploads;
- and static section related to META-NORD:
- general information about the project, partners, contact information and “members login” – a partner-restricted section;
- along with materials for the community:
- flyers, posters, public deliverables, papers accepted/published in conference proceedings/journals.

- Links to META-SHARE resources repository nodes.

Additionally, the META-NET website⁶ has the following sections:

- overview of upcoming META-NET events;
- information about how to join META-NET;
- EU ICT section with links to the main EC LT-related web resources (LT home⁷, LT & MT Projects⁸, FP7 ICT⁹, ICT-PSP¹⁰ and others).

The META-NORD project website is technically maintained by Tilde and LKI is responsible for the website content and its update during the project. The project website will be maintained by Tilde for at least 3 years after the official end of the project.

Google Analytic have been implemented on the project Web page. This will facilitate identification of the following KPIs (as mentioned in section 1.2):

- History of internet traffic to the Web page.
- History of traffic before and after a specific dissemination event to judge effectiveness and success of dissemination events.
- Geographical grouping of visitors.
- Number of visits and downloads for content made available (deliverables, descriptions of resources, hits on links to META-SHARE nodes etc.).

In addition to the overall project website, each partner has made META-NORD visible on the web in their respective countries¹¹:

- HI, Iceland: <http://vefir.hi.is/metanord/>
- LKI, Lithuania: <http://www.lki.lt/metanord/>
- Tilde, Latvia: <http://www.tilde.com/tilde-research/research-projects>
- UCPH, Denmark: <http://cst.ku.dk/projekter/metanord/>

- UHEL, Finland: <http://www.helsinki.fi/metanord>
- UIB, Norway: <http://meta-nord.b.uib.no/>
- UT, Estonia: <http://www.cs.ut.ee/metanord>

Furthermore, substantial parts of the META-NET website were translated to the various languages of the META-NORD consortium.

4.2.8. UGOT's plans for dissemination

- Scientific publications are planned for 2012.
- UGOT, A diachronic computational lexical resource for 800 years of Swedish Language technology for cultural heritage, Publication in scientific journal, Sweden, research community
- UGOT, Swesaurus – ett svenskt ordnät med fria tyglar, Publication in scientific journal, Sweden, research community
- UGOT, The open lexical infrastructure of Språkbanken, Conference paper, Turkey, research community
- UGOT, Korp - the corpus infrastructure of Språkbanken, Conference paper, Turkey, research community

5. Conclusions

During the first year of this project, the main effort of dissemination has been directed towards the research community, where most LT resources were expected to be found. Following closely were efforts directed at society and governments, to get the message across to the policy and decision makers. The area that seemingly received the least attention was the business and industry sector, but this should balance out once the final version of each country's Language Whitepaper (LWP) has been published and the META-SHARE repository nodes are fully functional and reliable for presentations.

The work on the LWPs has been an excellent means of strengthening contacts with the research community and business and industry. The LWPs should also be used as a means of intensifying dissemination work vis-à-vis government and policy makers.

Revised edition of this deliverable includes number of targeted activities to address industry players and stakeholders outside the research community.
